

Figure 1. Localization of a protein in a cell. The cell is represented by a large oval. The organelles are represented by small circles. The hatched circle represents the localization of a protein. The dots around the hatched circle represent the protein's distribution.